M. CASIMIR-PERIER.

How the New President of France Appears in Public.

After the tragic death of the late M. Carnot at the hands of an assassin, it must needs be a brave man who would fill his place. Such a man is M. Casimir-Perier, the new head of the French government. On a bright Sunday in October it was rumored about Paris that the president would attend the races at Longchamps, in the Bois de Boulogne. The French, anxious to see how M. Casimir-Perier bore his new honors, and the foreign element of Paris, eager for a sight of this courageous successor to kings and emperors, were out in great numbers.

Early in the afternoon the Champs Elysees, the Avenue Bois de Boulogne and the main roads of the Bois itself were thronged with spectators. Evidently something unusual was going on. The stranger was courteously informed that it was not a parade; that the president would shortly pass by on his way from the races.

A detachment of the mounted guards of the republic, in their glittering armor, were grouped in a picturesque manner around the great base of the Arc de Triomphe. At every few yards police were stationed, from the Palais de Elysee to the race course, a distance of several miles. Thousands of people lined the streets, and hundreds of cabs drove slowly back and forth, though half of the way was kept constantly clear by mounted officers. Among the notable Americans seen in the crowd were Dr. Evans of Empress Eugenie fame, in his private brougham, and Miss Sybil Sanderson of the grand opera, in a handsome victoria. The president was most patient, many of them waiting hours. Every neck was craned, every eye was turned toward the Bois. Judging from the amount of preparation and excitement, it might well have been the great Napoleon himself whom they expected. Presently a startling sight greeted the beholders. It was in the shape of a bright red coupe drawn by a chestnut horse. The people laughed and jeered in their light hearted French way, while the lone man in the vehicle grinned in a self satisfied way. Clearly it was not the president.

A moment later a captain of the guard spurred down the avenue, followed in quick succession by several mounted privates. The way was instantly cleared, the gay coupe disappearing down by a bypath, and the four horses on carriage of M. Casimir-Perier drove rapidly out of the Bois. The president, a dignified, fine looking man in the prime of life, was accompanied by his wife and two gentlemen. There were two flunkies on the box seat in white livery and two footmen in the rear. The president lifted his hat courteously, but, strange to say, there was no cheering such as greets the Prince of Wales in London or our own executive at home. It remained for two foreign ladies, English and American respectively, to throw the only flowers which M. Casimir-Perier received in all that crowd. With real republican enthusiasm, these young women rose up in their cab and tossed, with true feminine aim, a bunch of carnations. All but one fell to the ground and were crushed by the wheels of his carriage, but the last alighted on the lapel of the presidential coat. It was quickly handed to him by an observant lackey. M. Casimir-Perier graciously accepted it, bowing his thanks, and was speedily driven from view.—Cor. Detroit Free Press.

NORTH DAKOTA'S NEW BUG.

Nobody Knows What Industry It Has Come to Destroy.

A strange insect has made its appearance in North Dakota in large numbers and has been the source of much speculation as to its character, habits and name. It has been seen for many weeks past in myriads in certain localities and is now met with, as it has made its presence felt for weeks past, in stores, offices, barber shops, hotels and on the trees and walks. Where it came from and where and when it will go are yet unanswered questions. Professor Waldron of the state experimental station at Fargo says it is closely allied to the chinch bug that has caused millions of dollars' worth of damage during certain years in Minnesota and other states. He is of the opinion that these bugs came from South America, where most of their allies live.

The insects were first noticed in this portion of the state about the middle of August at Spiritwood lake. The bugs were seen in all stages of growth—from the red coated young to the black winged adults—hanging in clusters from the limbs and in large numbers on the trunks of the trees. The next instance known of their presence was on Sept. 20, when thousands of the young were found in the timber at the junction of the Pipestone and James rivers in this city. Nearly a dozen patches of the young, varying from four or five feet to 60 feet in diameter, were discovered. The wingless larvae, crimson in color, were several deep and formed a writhing mass. A few fully developed bugs were noticed among the young. Thousands were seen on the brush, logs, trees and stones. The insects, while in the larval state, remained in this locality for about two weeks and suddenly disappeared.

The adult bug is a little less than half an inch in length, is dull black in color, with small red markings, and has four wings. The first pair are leathery at the base and membranous at the tips. Its mouth consists of a single sucking tube, so that its living is obtained entirely by sucking. The young are similar to the adults, except that they are red and are wingless. With the growth of wings black markings appear.—Minneapolis Journal.

Heads You Lose, Tails I Win.
The Chinese have offered a reward of 50 many taels (a Chinese coin) for the head of every Jap who can be killed. Somebody says this is a case of heads you lose, tails the other fellow wins.—New York Times.

The indications all point to an early cabinet crisis in France. If it were not for the fact that French politics are governed by the laws of paradox, it would be a safe prophecy to say that the Dupuy ministry would not last another fortnight. It is generally felt that President Casimir-Perier would not be at all disturbed by the necessity of reorganizing his board of official advisers. There have been several such cases before. The enemies of the president may succeed in making his seat untenable. Efforts to that end will be made before many weeks, but many improbable things must happen before they can succeed.—London Standard.

HE BATTERED HIS OWN CLOTHES.

His Bright Cook Succeeded in Getting the Better of Him.

A citizen of Kiev, Russia, found fault with the dinner prepared by his new cook and rashly embodied his criticism in cutting sarcasms. The young woman heard him in silence. In the evening he knocked up against a pane in a deserted little street, and when he ventured to remonstrate he was vigorously assaulted. Unable to get the better of his adversary, he determined to do what he could at least to identify him later on, and with this object in view tore his assailant's fashionable clothes into shreds. On his return home some few hours later, he found the cook standing at the door, ready to shake the dust of his house off her feet. The gentleman, whose wounds and bruises left him in no very amiable mood, simply said: "Jeg be with you! Some time will pass before you get another place. And as to character—well, trust me to give you one that will stick."

On the following morning he discovered that his best clothes in the wardrobe were in tatters and his glossy silk hat an unsightly wreck. Hastily summing the other servants to the room, he angrily asked them what they knew about the matter, whereupon the nurse replied that the cook, in one of her freaks of fun, had donned her master's garments and gone out to walk in them the evening before, sticking on an artificial mustache to help to keep up the illusion. Then it dawned upon the wretched man that his assailant of the day before was the touchy, turbulent cook. Less than a fortnight later he received a letter through the city post informing him, in somewhat ungrammatical but unmistakable language, "You lied about the place, respected sir, when you said I could not get another if I left yours. I've been in five different places since then, and I'll be going to the sixth next Monday. Trusting your bones isn't aching, I remain Pravokiva."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A JOCKEY'S INCOME

A Small Boy's Big Earnings During the Year, Which Go For a Good Purpose.

A small boy, with no particular education, who can increase his income by $12,000 in a single year, may claim to be an exception to the general run of boys. This is what Jockey Griffin has done this year, and apparently he has not placed his services above their market value. He was something in the nature of a "find" last year, when Mr. Gideon engaged him at a salary of $4,000 for a year's riding. During the season Griffin proved that Mr. Gideon's judgment was correct, for he gained remarkable prominence among the jockeys. When it came time to talk about this season's work, it was found that Griffin had been approached by a number of owners, and that Mr. Lovell had offered him $15,000 to ride for his stable next year. He was re-engaged by Gideon & Daly for $10,000 for the coming season, an increase of exactly $12,000 over his salary for the past season.

It is not to be understood that this figure represents the entire income of the jockey, for under the rules he is permitted to ride for other owners when his services are not demanded by the man to whom he is under contract. The perquisites of a good jockey are more than the salary of a capable cashier or bookkeeper. Griffin, for instance, received $2,500 by way of a present, outside of his salary, for winning the Futurity. He is a sober, well-mannered lad and still very young, but he takes a great pride in his family and is educating his sisters and brothers out of his earnings.—New York Sun.

COMPETING WITH CHICAGO.

Norway Making Arrangements to Supply London With Mutton.

London will shortly have the advantage of another meat supply—this time from Norway—which, according to the London Telegraph, is perfecting arrangements for supplying the English metropolis with as much mutton, alive or dead, as it can spare for exportation. Systematic experiments were made recently under the supervision of the Stavanger Agricultural society, and the results were so satisfactory that in the approaching cold season it is to be repeated on a larger scale.

It appears that 80 sheep, each weighing about 100 pounds, were fattened for a week or so until they turned the scale at from 115 pounds to 123 pounds. They were then shipped to London, where they realized an average price, after deducting commission, of about $7.50, and as the total outlay had only been about $6.50 per head there was a net profit of nearly $1 on each animal. Forty were also sent over with the skins, heads and interior bones, but of these there was an average loss of 10 shillings per head, partly explained by the skins being damaged through bad packing.

Nevertheless the Stavanger society has come to the conclusion that the business promises to be remunerative, and the English people have thus an additional guarantee of an adequate supply of mutton.

A Tyrannical Landlord.

According to Mr. Labouchere in London Truth, the Duke of Beaufort, one of the most tyrannical of the landlords of England, assumes to dictate all the affairs of the town of Stoke-Gifford. His grace took objection to the election of Admiral Close as a churchwarden and served notices to quit on the tenant farmers who voted for him. The duke afterward announced that he would withdraw the notices only on condition that the admiral resigned. In order that the farmers should not suffer, the admiral did resign. It now appears that Admiral Close himself was a tenant of the duke, and he also received a notice to quit his house, which has just expired. He has practically been evicted because he was chosen churchwarden without dual approval.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersen, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Trial bottles free at Smoot Drug Co. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

So far as the audience was concerned, Von Bulow always made a point of doing exactly as he pleased. On one occasion when a Leipzig audience insisted on recalling him in spite of his repeated refusal to play again he came forward and said, "If you do not stop this applause, I will play all Bach's 48 preludes and fugues from beginning to end."—San Francisco Argonaut.

THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC FREE

Special offer to Readers of This Paper.

A Great Metropolitan Paper

IS INDISPENSABLE NOW.

THE "TWICE-A-WEEK" ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC will be sent FREE FOR ONE YEAR to any person sending in, before January 31, 1895, a club of three NEW yearly subscribers, with $3 to pay for the same.

Already the clans are gathering for the fray in 1896, and 1895 will be full of interesting events. The skirmish lines will be thrown out, the maneuvering done and the plans of campaign arranged for the great contest in '96.

The remaining short session of the Democratic Congress, to be followed shortly by a Republican Congress with a Democrat in the Presidential chair will be productive of events of incalculable interest.

In fact, more political history will be constructed during 1895 than in any year since the foundation of the Government, and a man without a newspaper will be like a useless lump in the movements of public opinion.

You can get three new subscribers for the Republic by a few minutes' effort. Remember the Republic subscribers get a paper twice-a-week for the price of a weekly—only $1.00 a year. Try it, AT ONCE, and see how easily it can be done. If you wish a package of sample copies, write for them. Cut out this advertisement and send with your order. Address: THE ST.
